Our Vision and Mission

Vision

» Children and youth with special healthcare needs (CYSHCN) and their families will be the center of a seamless support system that improves the quality of their lives.

Mission

» We partner with Illinois families and communities to help CYSHCN connect to services and resources.
DSCC provides care coordination services through four programs:

- Core Program – Ages birth to 21 with medically eligible conditions.

- Connect Care Program – Ages birth to 21 with special healthcare needs who are enrolled in a Medicaid HealthChoice Illinois plan that has contracted with DSCC for care coordination.
DSCC provides care coordination services through four programs (continued):

- Home Care Program – Children or youth in need of in-home shift nursing.
- Interim Relief Program – Children with eligible mental health or behavioral disorders.
What is an Appeal?

An appeal is when you ask your health insurance company to reconsider their decision. Health insurance plans are required to tell you why they did not cover services.

You may get a letter from your insurance plan denying coverage for services.

You have the right to file an appeal with your insurance company.
 Appeal Process

STEP 1: Know your insurance plan

STEP 2: Understand the denial

STEP 3: Know your rights to appeal

STEP 4: Gather documentation

STEP 5: Write an appeal letter

STEP 6: Submit the appeal
Why should you appeal?

- It is your right. When a service or supply is medically necessary, do not accept “no” for an answer.

- An appeal can help you get an approval for a needed service.
Who can help with an appeal?

- Your health insurance plan
- Your doctors and providers
- Social worker
- DSCC care coordinator
- Illinois Department of Insurance
- Illinois Attorney General
Example Case

Patrick James, age 5

Has an autism diagnosis

Needs applied behavior analysis (ABA) therapy

Has private Aetna plan through mom’s job

The plan is a Health Maintenance Organization (HMO)
Step 1: Know Your Insurance Plan

- Know the name of your insurance and what type of plan you have
- Review the health benefit handbook to understand your benefits. This is usually called a “member handbook”
- Talk with your doctor or provider about the needed service
  - Other options might need to be tried first
  - The doctor might have more information on how to get the service approved before an appeal is needed
Step 1: Know Your Insurance Plan

Getting a referral when required
- A referral is when your primary care doctor works with your health insurance to get permission for you to see a specialist or for you to receive care.

Getting a prior authorization when required
- A prior authorization is when your insurance company reviews the services needed and gives approval before they will pay for services.

Using in-network doctors
- An in-network provider is a provider who your insurance plan has made an agreement with to provide services to anyone with that insurance plan for a less expensive rate.
- You may have out-of-network benefits available too, but you will need to know how your plan works.
Your Costs

Premium: The amount you pay for your health insurance every month.

Deductible: The amount you pay for covered services before your insurance plan starts to pay.

Co-insurance: A percentage amount you pay for a covered healthcare service.

Example: Durable medical equipment is covered at 80 percent so you have a 20 percent co-insurance per service. If you need a piece of equipment that is billed at $100, your insurance pays $80 and you pay $20.
Your Costs

Co-pay: A set amount you pay for a covered healthcare service.

- Example: $20 to be seen at your regular office visit or $30 to be seen at a specialist visit.

Out-of-Pocket Maximum: The most you must pay for covered services in a plan year.

Understanding an Explanation of Benefits (EOB)

Step 2: Understand the Denial

An important step before the appeal is to understand why your health insurance plan said “no” to a service.

Your health insurance plan will usually send you a letter that says why the service was denied. This can happen before or after a service is received.

You may also look at an Explanation of Benefits (EOB) to see information about a denied service. These are sent after a service has been provided.
Common Denial Reasons

- Mistake or error
- Pre-authorization was required
- Treatment is not medically necessary
- Drug or therapy is off-formulary
- The care is out-of-network
- Service Not Covered

Dear Member and Healthcare Provider(s) of Record

After review, we have made a decision about coverage for the following health care services for the member named above. We use nationally recognized clinical guidelines and resources, such as Level of Care Assessment Tool (LOCAT), American Society of Addiction Medicine’s Patient Placement Criteria for the Treatment of Substance Related Disorders, Second Edition Revised (ASAM PPC-2R), Applied Behavioral Analysis (ABA) Guidelines for the treatment of Autism Spectrum Disorders, and Clinical Policy Bulletins available at http://www.aetna.com/cpb/cpb_menu.html, as well as plan benefit documents to support these coverage decisions.

Coverage for this service has been denied for the following reason(s):

Coverage for the requested services has been denied because we have not been able to obtain any requested clinical information from the provider to determine whether or not the services are considered medically necessary under the terms of the plan.

(No Clinical Information Denial) This coverage denial was based on the terms of the member’s benefit plan document (such as the Certificate of Coverage or benefit plan booklet/handbook, including any amendments or riders). The plan has a requirement to receive enough information to determine if services are covered. Please see the Reports and Records section of the benefit plan document or the section of the plan document that talks about reporting claims or claim procedures.

(No Clinical Information Denial) This coverage denial was based on the terms of the member's
Step 3: Know Your Rights to An Appeal

- Understand the appeal timeline and the deadline to file your appeal
  - The timelines for filing an appeal can be found in your Member Handbook
  - You can call your health plan to get this information

- If an Explanation of Benefits was received in the mail or electronically, it should tell you the appeal process. The notice usually tells you the deadline to file an appeal for the claim

- Know how to contact your health plan to start the appeal process
There are three different types of appeals you can file.

These are based on the time, outcome, and medical need of the denied service or supply.

- Pre-service Appeals are before the service happens.
- Post-service Appeals are for services already received that were denied.
- Expedited Appeals can be used if a regular appeal could seriously risk the life or long-term health of a person. This is if you need the health plan to decide quickly.
You will want to keep detailed documentation throughout every step. Documentation is very important in the appeal process.

Keep a calendar to track dates

Keep a contact log to track when you talked to different people
- Doctors, the health plan, or others

Keep a folder for supporting documents
- Medical records or letters from the doctor
- Letters from you
- Letters or documents from the health insurance plan
Insurance Appeals Calendar

Documentation is very important when appealing a decision made by your health insurance plan. There are many tools that can be used to stay organized.

This calendar can be used for the appeals process to keep track of:

- Important deadlines or dates
- Dates documents or calls were received from the health plan
- Dates phone calls were made to the health plan or documentations were sent to the health plan

Insurance Appeals Communication Log

Documentation is very important when appealing a decision made by the health insurance plan. There are many tools that can be used to stay organized.

This communication log can be used for the appeals process. You can keep track of when you talk to people and what you talked about. Here are some examples of what to keep track of:

- When you call the doctor to ask for supporting letters
- When you call the health plan to ask questions
- When you mail the appeal letter

You will write a letter to your health plan. It is also important to have supporting letters or documents from your doctor or providers.

A letter from your doctor or medical provider
- The letter should say why the doctor supports your decision to appeal the denial.

Any other information you have that may be helpful
- This could be calls with your insurance company where you were provided information
- Other medical reports that support the need for the service
Step 5: Write the Letter

You will have to write a letter telling your health insurance plan that you are appealing a decision.

- The letter should be to the point and specific.
- Tell them that you disagree with their decision and why you disagree.
- Tell them what result you want
- Put a brief summary of the other documents that you are including in your packet.

There are many important details that you should include in the letter. We will review those together.
Health Insurance Appeals

An appeal is when you ask your health insurance company to reconsider their decision. Health insurance plans must tell you why they did not cover services.

Tips for the Appeal

- Pay attention to appeal deadlines for when the appeal is due. Mail your letter certified. This step will give you proof that you sent the letter before the deadline.
- Stay organized with a calendar or contact log. You should document your communications and important dates.
- Make copies of your appeal packet.
- You can request an expedited review of your appeal if you or your child need a treatment or procedure right away.

Sample Appeal Letter

The next page has a sample letter that you can use when you need to file an appeal to your health insurance plan. You will need to include your own information.
What to Put in the Letter

- You and your child’s information.
  - Your health plan information such as your member ID, policy holder, group number.
  - The policy holder’s name and the child’s name and date of birth.

- Claims information if services were already received.
  - This includes the claim number and date of services.
  - This can be found on the Explanation of Benefits or by calling your health plan.

- The provider's name and your doctor’s name.

To Whom It May Concern at Aetna:
What to Put in the Letter

The denial reason
- You should try to word this exactly how they put it in the denial letter.

History of your child’s illness and the necessary treatment
- Your doctor will probably explain this but it is important to include a short explanation in your letter
- It is important to include what will happen if your child’s services do not get approved.

What decision you are appealing and you believe the decision was wrong.

What result you want from the insurance company.
To Whom It May Concern at Aetna:

My name is Alicia James, and I am a policyholder of Aetna. My child’s name is Patrick James. I wish to file an appeal to Aetna for the denial of Applied Behavior Analysis Therapy, Procedure Code H2019 for my child. I received a denial letter dated 4/15/2023 stating coverage for the requested services has been denied because Aetna was not able to obtain any requested clinical information from the provider to determine whether or not the services are considered medically necessary under the terms of the plan.

My child was diagnosed with Autism in September 2020. Autism is a severe, chronic developmental disorder. Applied Behavior Analysis Therapy can promote social and language development. This can help minimize behaviors that interfere with functioning and learning. ABA is considered by many researchers and clinicians to be the most effective evidence-based therapeutic approach for children with autism.
Patrick is seen by Dr. Fisher at Good Family Pediatrics. Dr. Fisher has referred Patrick for Applied Behavior Therapy at Best Therapy Center. The therapist he sees is Jackie Smith. In the Letter of Medical Necessity, which is included, Dr. Fisher explained why Applied Behavior Analysis Therapy is necessary for my child. I have also included other documents including medical reports and evaluations that Patrick has had done that explain why this care is needed for my child. This is the only therapy of its kind. Patrick has been in occupational, developmental, speech, and physical therapy since he was 6 months old. He needs additional support with ABA Therapy.

Please review the included documents and reconsider the previous denial decision to allow coverage of ABA Therapy as this treatment is necessary to my child’s health.

If there is any other supporting information you need to approve these services, please do not hesitate to contact me at 123-456-7891 or Dr. Fisher at 800-123-4567.
Thank you for your attention in this matter. Your prompt consideration to this appeal is appreciated.

Sincerely,

Alicia James

Things Not to Do

- Do not talk about what would make it easier for the patient or caregiver.
- Do not be vague. It is important to be specific and clear.
- Do not miss timelines when filing an appeal. Submit an appeal letter within the deadline for your health insurance plan.
- Do not forget to include plan identification number(s). If the plan and plan member cannot be found, the appeal will not be processed.
Submit the appeal letter and all other documents on time. Pay attention to the deadline.

Mail your letter certified. This will give you proof that you sent the letter before the deadline.

Make copies of your appeal packet.

You can request an expedited review of your appeal if a treatment or procedure is needed right away.

If you get your insurance through your job, you may also be able to get help from your employer’s human resources or benefits department.
Follow up and External Review

It is important to continue to follow up with the health insurance plan until the decision has been made. You should continue to keep documenting when you call to check on the appeal.

If the appeal is denied, you can file a second appeal and include additional information not included in the first appeal or you can ask for an external review.
An external review is an appeal that is completed by someone outside the health plan.

- This appeal can be done if the internal appeal is denied by the health insurance plan.
- Done with a physician who is board-certified in the same specialty as the patient’s physician.

The health plan will give you the choice of two independent reviewers.

- They do not work for the health plan.
- The reviewers are from the Illinois Department of Insurance.
- You and your provider can choose which one will do the independent review.
What happens if the external appeal is approved?

If the external appeal was a post-service appeal and is won, the health plan will be told, and the treatment/claim will be processed as approved.

If the external appeal was a pre-service appeal and is approved, the health plan will be told, and an approval will be given for treatment.
What happens if the external appeal is denied?

If the external appeal request is denied, you can appeal the decision of the independent reviewer with the Illinois Department of Insurance.

If the Illinois Department of Insurance changes the independent reviewer’s decision, they will require the insurance to pay for the treatment/claim.

- The health plan can appeal the Department of Insurance decision and a new independent reviewer will be assigned to review the case.
- The decision of the independent reviewer can be appealed.

The complaint will be sent to the health plan. Illinois law allows 21 days for the health plan to respond.

Appeals can result in a changed decision – this can benefit you and/or your child greatly!

It is important for you to keep detailed documentation during all the steps of the appeals process.

It is important to keep track of deadlines for the appeal.

You should work with providers or others that can help to get all the right information for the appeal.

If an appeal is denied, you have other options.
